Obsidian Crack

A simple, powerful and powerful audio and video player. With MediaViewer you can view a playlist of multimedia files in a window. You can view audio and video from the filesystem and even upload files to your server. To do this, just select the folder where you want to search for multimedia files in the File -> Search folder menu. You can then choose which file type you want to search, then you can choose to only search the active directory, or do a recursive search of the entire partition. You can even manually select files to play them by highlighting the file. Moreover, with the settings menu, you can specify how to play your files. You can also define how to play files when you're using multiple tabs, or in a slideshow. You can even define the speed of the slideshow and even play audios or videos in the background while browsing the filesystem. Last but not least, with the help of a setting menu, you can decide how to connect with your server. You can even use your MediaPlayer settings. On top of that, you can specify the importance of the file types to play. These settings are also saved and remembered by MediaViewer. When you logoff, MediaViewer saves the settings you've defined for each file. You can also turn off the connection when you log off, and you can even modify the information stored in MediaViewer. When you start MediaViewer the first time, it will check if the configuration file exists. And if it doesn't, it will ask you for some data. You can then define and modify the configuration file, and save your changes. MediaViewer will be launched with the settings you've modified. See to learn more about MediaViewer. Notes MediaViewer works in windowed mode only. MediaViewer keeps an internal copy of the file, so that you don't need to have the original file on your computer.

MediaViewer uses very little resources. When browsing through the filesystem, the overall system speed may vary, depending on how fast you are. Closing MediaViewer doesn't have any effect on the files you're viewing. Setting's file types: Audio : mp3, mp2, m4a, aac, au, wav Video : avi, mpg,

mpeg, mov, flv, mp4 Note
