KEYMACRO is a unique and highly efficient programming tool, especially for serial keyboard users. It is focused on working with the Shift- and Caps-Lock keys on your keyboard. The application can help users create macros, assigning new functions to the keyboard key you want. KeyMACRO makes it possible to create shortcuts by assigning one or several functions to a particular key, so that every time you press the button you can perform a set of actions without even having to think about the specifics. KEYMACRO supports Windows 2000-10 (32/64 bits) as well as any Linux operating system (more on that below). It can run on ANY keyboard, with no extra hardware required. In addition, the software has no external dependency: it doesn't need any other programs to function properly. KeyMACRO allows a user to change the settings for any key of the keyboard (modifier, ctrl, shift, alt, caps, num lock, and scroll lock), an option normally reserved for only a limited number of programs. A user can configure a single key (a single-key macro) or a group of keys (a group of multi-key macros). A multi-key macro can be used by more than one user at the same time and can be triggered from any application, an action that would be impossible with only a single key macro. For instance, a user could assign a key or a group of keys to the Shift and Ctrl keys in order to convert any double-clicking action into a two-key combo. What makes KeyMACRO so unique is the fact that it can create a separate shortcut for every single combination of keys, so users can create macros that they can assign to the Caps-Lock, Ctrl, Shift, and Alt keys in a way that they can execute any operation without having to navigate their way through the menus or press any other combination of keys. This allows users to create their own custom shortcuts or to use several shortcuts in combination (e.g., use the Caps-Lock key in combination with the Ctrl key). Supported OS: Windows 2000, XP, 2003, Vista, 7, 8, 8.1, 10 (32/64 bits) Mac OS 10.4, 10.5, 10.6, 10.7, 10.8, 10.9 Linux (most of the *BSD and Unix-like systems) Keyboard: Any standard keyboard Keyboard layout: Any, including Dvorak Multitouch http://www.daiko.org/cgi-def/admin/C-100/d-
