It is distributed as a zip file with two files: a "resource" and an executable (which you don't have to install).

The program uses the "Macro Key" which is usually found on the right side of the keyboard, near the 1 key or above it. It should be a standard key on most modern keyboards.

Macro Key Usage:

Keymacro will use the "Macro Key" to read and perform the following actions:

1. Save the current state as a macro file. The macro file can be opened by any program, and the macro can be reused to repeat the same action. It can be saved as "txt," "csv," "eml," "xls" or "jpg" file.
2. Create a macro using the current state. The macro can be used to repeat the same action at any time.
3. Play the current macro file. The macros are played in the order they are saved.
